

GIWEH-Global Institute for Water, Environment and Health

Invites you to attend
the Expert Meeting

*Using International law to implement and monitor
SDG 6.5; 6.6 and 6b*

30 November 2016

Duna Room, Millenàris Park,

Budapest

11:00 - 12:00

Global Institute for Water
Environment and Health

Leadership For Positive Change

Chairperson: Prof. András Szöllösi-Nagy, DSc, PhD. Chair, International Programme Committee Chair, Drafting Group Budapest Water Summit 2016

Respondent: Alice Bouman-Dentener Vice Chair Global Water Partnership

Facilitator: Jan van de Venis, Human Rights Lawyer - JustLaw Amsterdam. Expert on human rights and the environment / sustainable development

Respondent: Dr. Zaki Shubber, lecturer in law and water diplomacy at the UNESCO-IHE Institute for Water Education in Delft, The Netherlands

Presentations: Dr. Tobias Schmitz Senior Advisor-Water Resources Management at GIWEH

Presentations: Nynke Schaap, Water Governance Researcher at GIWEH

Presentations: Benedetta Gambatesa, Water, Land and Ecosystems Researcher at GIWEH

Targets 6.5 and 6.6 of the Sustainable Development Goals are challenging targets with many dimensions. What for instance are the parameters that need to be monitored to indicate that a water resources system is being managed in an 'integrated' manner at all levels, including successful cooperation at the transboundary level? What do we need to measure to know that water related ecosystems are being protected and restored? This side event is conceived as an expert meeting which will look at the SDG water targets from a legal perspective, aiming to show that legal analysis helps to develop the road map for implementation of these goals.